Project's context and objectives:

For more than 25 years, the spill, of a huge quantity of phospho-gypsum in the sea has been caused by the industrial complex of Gannouch.As well; fishing by trawl has inflicted harmful effects and great damage resulting nowadays in a strong reduction of water transparency and water point. Besides, this problem caused an elevated restriction of psodonia surface and the extinction of many species in the lagoon of Bughrara .

Another problem which concerns fishermen is the presence of tons of lost fishing net which continue to lie for a long time in submarine of canal of Adjim .This obstructed the reliefs underwater which is considered as true natural fish tank and blocked the cycle of reproduction.

The club Tipaza profited from the festival of diving during the summer of 2010 and took out 600 kg of lost fishing net in an infinitesimal zone. This was an encouraging beginning and must be continued and supported to cover other zones of the canal which are more affected.

In this context, this project has been carried out and aimed at:

*restoring the cycle of reproduction of fish

*contributing to the reappearance of many species which become rare *making fishermen conscious of the importance of protecting the natural resources.
